9993.70	10188	10282	10383	10476	10578	10773

TECHNICAL VIEW:

Market extends losses:- Nifty likely to be volatile ahead of F&O expiry; 3 stocks that can give up to 10% upside. The Indian equity market ended the week long session on a volatile note, taking cues from a fraud development in banking space as well as weak global sentiment. The Nifty continued to face consolidation after initially opening on gap up during the start of the week, but gradually the momentum shifted towards negative territory to close at 10452 levels down by 1.18 per cent on weekly closing basis. Although the index made an attempt to breach its crucial upper band at 10,600 level, it vindicated a weak support for the rally as bears took control.

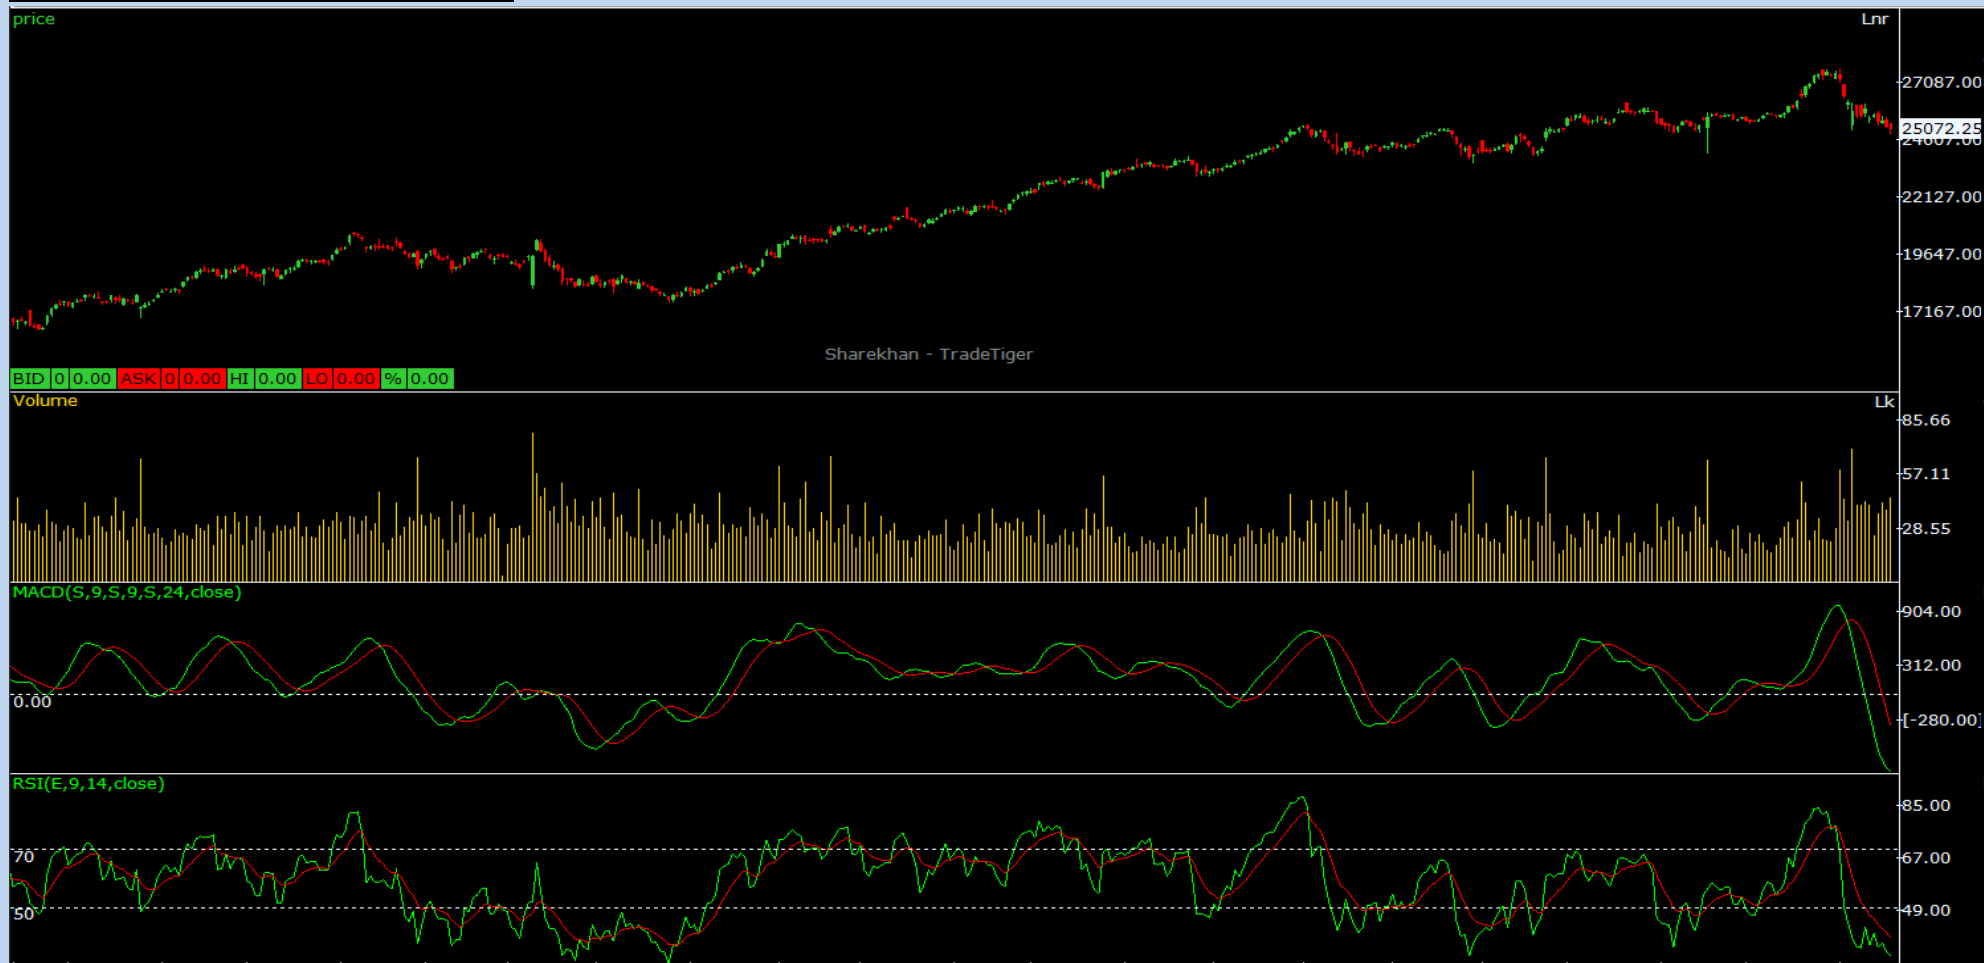

Nifty futures have resistance 10450. After crossing this level it can reach up to the level of 10520. In the downside nifty futures has support near 10300 after breaking this support it can slip till level of 10220.

Global Indices:

- European stocks struggled to make headway Monday, after the regional market logged its best week in more than a year following the recent selloff.
- Traders were searching for a catalyst on what is expected to be a quiet day, with equity markets in China closed for holidays.
- U.S. stock futures edged up on Monday, extending Friday's mostly upbeat action, but traders were steering away from big bets as they got the session off for Presidents Day.
